

Generally, birds sing to express their feelings of love, and to tell other birds that variations in

you and I can

hear each other speak

in notes of

ink.